

Storm Over DeGaulle's WEU Boycott

By DAVID LANCASHIRE
Associated Press Writer
LONDON (AP) — President Charles de Gaulle's boycott of the Western European Union threw a new storm over the Continent today, less than a week before President Nixon's visit.

In the latest maneuver of De Gaulle's little cold war with Britain, France withdrew Monday from the council of the WEU, the seven-nation organization that provides the only forum in which Britain and the six nations of the Common Market can discuss cooperation. The council meets twice a month.

Some commentators regarded the confrontation between France and Britain as a deliberate buildup for the U.S. President's visit.

For France, it underlines De Gaulle's determination to lead Western Europe, to show Nixon that Western Europe cannot move without Paris, and to warn Nixon not to push for Britain's entry into the Common Market.

For Britain, it demonstrates that Britain enjoys the support of France's five Common Market allies, and it shows the conviction of Prime Minister Harold Wilson's government that Britain belongs in Europe despite De Gaulle's veto.

The crisis began building up last week when all the WEU governments except France — Britain, West Germany, Italy, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — agreed to consult each other on foreign affairs and to discuss the Middle East at a special meeting in London last Friday.

De Gaulle reportedly considered this meeting a British maneuver to get closer political links with the Continent and approach the Common Market through the back door.

France boycotted the meeting and unsuccessfully demanded the resignation of Maurice Iwens D'Eckhoutte of Belgium, secretary-general of the WEU, for allowing it to be held.

French officials said their government told the organization, Monday it was halting "all activities in WEUs indefinitely" and that France would not attend a WEU council meeting scheduled in London today.

France will continue to attend WEU meetings below the council level, however, and officials said French delegates would be at the semiannual WEU parliamentary assembly in Paris next Thursday.

The WEU was organized in 1954, chiefly as a device to permit the controlled rearmament of West Germany after a pre-De Gaulle French government vetoed the European Army project. Its military functions have been largely taken over by the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

The annual report of the Common Market executive commission, issued Monday, said in effect that France's veto of Britain had caused "a general deterioration of the atmosphere within the community."

On another front, about 50 British organizations reportedly decided in London last night to harass President Nixon with "a massive campaign of militant demonstrations" during his stay in London.

Scotland Yard and American security men are making preparations to protect the President.

Temperatures to Rise Wednesday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Temperatures throughout Arkansas are expected to rise through Wednesday.

A southerly flow of air will move into the state and produce the warmer reading as a high pressure center moves eastward. The southerly flow is also expected to supply more moisture to the area but no precipitation is expected until near the end of the week.

The forecast calls for clear skies and cold temperatures tonight and increasing cloudiness Wednesday. High temperatures Wednesday are expected to push the 60-degree mark.

Overnight low temperatures ranged from 18 at Fayetteville to 31 at Texarkana and Memphis. No rainfall was reported during the 24-hour period ended at 6 a.m.

Rail Wreck Blasts Leave Seven Dead

By JAMES STEVENSON
Associated Press Writer

CRETE, Neb. (AP) — A pre-dawn train derailment caused a tank car of anhydrous ammonia to explode in this southeast Nebraska town Tuesday. Authorities said at least seven persons died.

National Guard Col. Edward Binder said seven deaths were confirmed. And Crete Police Chief John Cooney said the count "may go higher."

Scores of townspeople on the western side of this town of 3,500 were evacuated from their homes as a cloud of poisonous ammonia gas spread over the area during a heavy fog.

A dozen or more residents were taken to the Crete Municipal hospital for treatment. "The place is a chaos," a hospital spokesman said.

There was some question whether the victims were killed by the gas or by the tank car explosion, which was triggered by a derailment involving several cars of a 98-car Denver-to-Chicago Burlington freight train. The cars struck the tank car, which was parked on a siding, a railroad official said.

"Damage is terrific," said Police Chief Cooney.

National guardsmen and state police, using gas masks, aided in the evacuation. A helicopter from Lincoln, 25 miles to the northeast, used its rotor blades to help dispel the cloud of gas.

By noon, most of the gas had drifted southwest of the city. But a strong ammonia smell clung to the area.

A number of the victims were reported asleep when the accident occurred about 6:30 a.m., CST.

Undersea Experiment Suspended

By RALPH DIGHTON
AP Science Writer

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A $10-million Navy program to train men for undersea living has been suspended while doctors try to learn why an aquanaut had a fatal heart seizure 610 feet down on Monday.

Sealab 3, the leaking underwater dwelling unit which Berry L. Cannon, 33, was attempting to repair when stricken, was ordered hauled up from the ocean floor near San Clemente Island.

A delay of weeks seemed likely for the trouble-plagued project, which called for five nine-man teams to spend 12 days each living and working at the bottom of the sea.

The other eight members of Cannon's team began a six-day period of decompression, a gradual process in which their body tissues become accustomed again to surface pressures. Like Cannon, they had been conditioned to pressures 19 times normal to withstand the weight of the ocean at the Sealab's depth.

The body of Cannon, a civilian with three children, was flown to 11th Naval District headquarters at San Diego, Calif., for an autopsy. Deputy County Coroner W. T. Souza said preliminary tests were inconclusive.

The depth was not unusual for experimental descents and spokesmen said all divers in the program had been tested at that pressure in compression chambers without mishap.

The project, delayed since last July by equipment problems, got under way Saturday when the 57-by-12 foot steel cylinder was lowered by crane to the ocean floor.

No diver set foot in it, however.

Preliminary checks Sunday showed the helium-oxygen breathing mixture with which it was pressurized was leaking slowly at places where power and communications lines entered the unit.

Cannon, an electronics engineer, and three others of his team were sent down in a diving bell to investigate Sunday night and again Monday morning. On the second dive, Cannon suffered a seizure which Navy doctors termed a cardiac arrest, or heart stoppage.

Cannon, of Panama City, Fla., and Navy CWO Robert Barth, 38, had swum 20 feet from the diving bell to the dwelling unit. Suddenly Barth noticed Cannon was in trouble and helped him back to the bell. All four men were returned quickly to a pressure chamber on the support ship, the USS Elk River, directly overhead, but Cannon was dead when they arrived.

Bliss Quits as Chairman of the GOP

By JACK BELL
AP Political Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House announced today the resignation of Ray C. Bliss as Republican national chairman, effective in mid-April.

Press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler made public an exchange of letters in which Bliss said he would leave the party job to return to private business and Nixon said he accepted the decision with a salute "for a job extraordinarily well done."

The letters gave no explanation for his resignation and Ziegler said the White House would not amplify. Only five weeks ago, Bliss conferred with then President-elect Nixon in New York and announced he had been asked to remain as chairman.

Ziegler said he knew of no disagreement between the President and Bliss. He said they had not conferred privately since the Jan. 10 meeting in New York.

After Nixon's election, reports began circulating the new President wished to replace Bliss with a chairman who could act as a spokesman for the party on speakers platforms around the nation.

In his four years as chairman, Bliss has concentrated on the technical and organizational side of politics, leaving policy speeches to others.

Bliss was chosen to head the GOP National Committee after the 1964 presidential election.

Strong Sentiment for Deep Cuts in $195.3 Billion Budget of LBJ

By STERLING F. GREEN
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's budget director told Congress today the administration will support a one-year extension of the 10 per cent surtax. Nevertheless, he said, it foresees a shrinkage in this year's budget surplus and possibly next year's.

Robert P. Mayo, testifying before the Senate-House Economic Committee, promised "a diligent effort to reduce outlays" in a review of former President Lyndon B. Johnson's $195.3 billion fiscal 1970 budget now underway.

"I am realistic enough, however, to appreciate that overall savings are not likely to be dramatic either for the few remaining months of 1969 or for 1970," the budget director said.

In the clearest declaration yet of the Nixon administration's position on whether to let the 10 per cent surcharge on individual and corporation income taxes expire as scheduled on June 30, the budget chief told the lawmakers:

"Our administration's current position is to support the proposed extension of the surcharge and the excise taxes."

The seven per cent automobile excise tax and the 10 per cent telephone excise are scheduled to drop to five per cent next Jan. 1. President Johnson recommended an extension, and Mayo's testimony disclosed that the Nixon administration sees equal need for the fiscal restraint.

The need for a surplus, however modest, in fiscal 1969 is clear, Mayo said in his prepared testimony.

He concurred with the President's Council of Economic Advisers, whose members testified Monday, that a return to deficit financing would damage any prospect of curbing the inflationary spiral.

Members of the joint committee indicate there is strong sentiment in Congress for deep cuts — comparable to last year's $6 billion slash — in the budget inherited by Nixon.

Sen. William Proxmire, D-

Wis., presiding temporarily over committee hearings, said he was "very disappointed" at Monday's testimony from members of the Council of Economic Advisers who did not foresee large savings from the current review of Johnson's last budget.

"But that doesn't mean Congress cannot make the cuts itself," Proxmire said. When questioned on whether he thought it might be possible to force a $6-billion reduction in the fiscal 1970 budget request, as was done in fiscal 1969, Proxmire replied:

"Oh, certainly. There is more sentiment in Congress for a cut this year."

Asks Defeat of Fair Trade Liquor Bill

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House Revenue and Taxation Committee today recommended defeat of a bill that would repeal the state's Fair Trade Liquor Law.

The vote was 7-3 on the bill by Rep. Cecil Alexander of Heber Springs.

The committee again recommended defeat of a bill that would repeal the sales tax exemption on advertising.

The author, Rep. Jimmie Don McKissack of Star City, had referred the measure back to committee to consider an amendment maintaining the exemption for radio stations. However, the amendment was rejected.

The committee also adopted a motion saying it would recommend defeat of a bill by Rep. Bennie Ryburn of Monticello to repeal all exemptions from sales and use tax laws.

Ryburn succeeded Monday in bringing the measure out of committee without recommendation on a 76-8 vote by the House members.

Two bills by Rep. Allan Dismouth of Little Rock affecting privilege taxes on cigarette and merchandise vending machines were also given an unfavorable recommendation.

Confirmation of Nuclear Treaty Urged

By ROBERT T. GRAY
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Armed Services Committee, in a move that could further delay Senate approval of the nuclear nonproliferation treaty, has announced plans for hearings on military aspects of the pact.

Chairman John Stennis, D-Miss., indicated Monday the hearings would start after the Senate Foreign Relations Committee winds up its own inquiry starting today with Secretary of State William P. Rogers as the leadoff witness.

Foreign Relations, which held hearings last year on the treaty that would ban the spread of nuclear arms, is expected to give it prompt approval.

But while that committee has long been in favor of the treaty, the move by Armed Services could provide a forum or rallying point for critics unhappy with inspection procedures and other provisions.

Rogers, in his first appearance as secretary before a congressional committee, had the assignment of following up on President Nixon's request of Feb. 5 that the Senate "act promptly to consider the treaty and give its advice and consent to ratification."

Secretary of Defense Melvin M. Laird will appear Thursday in support of the presidential request.

The Foreign Relations Committee approved the treaty after an initial round of testimony last September but it was not brought to a vote before Congress adjourned.

The treaty would bind nuclear powers to keep atomic weapons out of the hands of countries that do not now have them, but would permit sharing peaceful uses of nuclear power.

It would take effect with ratification by this country, Great Britain, Russia and any 40 other countries. It has been ratified to date only by Great Britain and six nonnuclear nations. The other two nuclear powers, France and Red China, have said they will not sign. The treaty will need a two-thirds vote of approval—or 67 senators in favor if all 100 are present—when it is called up on the floor.

Tuesday, February 18, 1969

Its backers see an immediate advantage in holding down the number of countries that have nuclear weapons and a potential long-range advantage of an end to the nuclear arms race.

Critics protest that inspection procedures are inadequate, that this country should not foreclose the possibility it might some day want to provide nuclear arms to an ally and that a provision allowing withdrawal on 90 days notice renders the pledges involved almost worthless.

Those are among the points expected to be covered by the Armed Services Committee. Stennis said the hearings would be brief.

Make the Parents Pay?

Playing football in front of his house, little Tommy crashed full tilt into a passing pedestrian. The man suffered painful injuries. And later sued Tommy's parents for damages.

"Their son was to blame," he contended in court. "Therefore, they ought to pay the bill."

But the court found no liability. The judge said there was no reasonable way by which Tommy's parents could have prevented this kind of an accident.

In its decision, the court was following a general rule of law. With limited exceptions, parents cannot be held liable for damage done by their children—merely because of the relationship.

However, parents may indeed be responsible if, by their own negligence, they contribute to the injury. For instance:

The parents of a neighborhood bully were warned repeatedly about his viciousness. But they made no effort to mend his ways. So when the boy threw a younger child down and broke his leg, the parents were ordered to pay damages. The court said that, even though they hadn't exactly authorized what their son did, they had encouraged him by their hands off attitude.

Parental liability may also come from entrusting a dangerous instrumentality to a child not yet ready for that kind of responsibility.

What does the law mean by a "dangerous instrumentality"? Obvious examples are guns and cars, the use of which by children is often regulated by local statute.

But an instrumentality won't be classified as dangerous just because it is possible to hurt someone with it. Take this case:

During a game of cowboys, a small boy inadvertently struck his playmate in the eye with a toy pistol. Could the boy's parents be held liable on the ground that they had entrusted a "dangerous instrumentality" to their son?

No, ruled a court, for that would be stretching language too far. The judge said:

"The toy pistol is universally accepted as a child's play thing. If the instrumentality is not inherently dangerous and there is no negligence in its use, there is no liability even though, because of accident, damage is caused."

Highest Paid Performer

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Singer Barbra Streisand's just-signed contract with the Las Vegas, Nev., International Hotel will make her the highest-paid performer in night club history, says Alex Shookey, the hotel's executive vice president.

Neither Shookey nor Miss Streisand would reveal what the salary will be. The hotel, opening later this year, will have a 2,000-seat main auditorium. Miss Streisand signed Monday for one engagement a year for five years.

Until now Frank Sinatra has been estimated to draw the biggest night club pay—$100,000 a week for four weeks in Las Vegas.

Television and Radio

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP)—Monday night's power-packed NBC lineup—"Laugh-In," Bob Hope and Jack Benny specials in succession—probably ran the evening's Nielsen ratings up to the stratosphere.

Even if "Laugh-In" is beginning to look a little tired around the edges, it is still TV's most popular weekly series, and the two hours that followed measured up to the high standards of the two pros who starred in them.

Hope's program, after the comedians opening monologue, turned into an old-fashioned Vaudeville show. He played the magician in one of those magic acts that misfired. George Burns, with the help of a young protegee, ran through one of the nonsense routines he used to do with Gracie Allen. Martha Raye mugged and clowned her way through a song number. And Hope with Bing Crosby did a comedy turn full of elderly, dreadful—and funny jokes.

Although Hope seemed to be taking things a little easier than usual after his recent eye trouble, he made light of it in his monologue—tossing out a casual crack about his "red eye" along with a couple of flip references to the vice presidency.

Jack Benny and company had a really hilarious hour, ostensibly to celebrate the star's 75th birthday. From the moment Lawrence Welk opened the show by doing a Benny impersonation, of all things, to a witty and bright study of the classic Western, the show was full of surprise turns.

Lucille Ball did a song and dance number with the chorus boys. A pride—or maybe it was a gaggle—of penguins occasionally interrupted Jack's discussions with the audience by waddling across the stage—and one of them was on rollerskates.

The song, dance, monologues and nonsense led up to a big birthday cake.

There was nothing in either show that could have given the network censors a moment's disquiet, yet they were amusing and evoked laughter.

The thought crossed this viewer's mind toward the end of three solid hours of variety-type entertainment: Does the audience that finds Hope witty and bright and Benny warmly funny also think that Tiny Tim—who was blowing kisses around "Laugh-In" earlier—is a comical figure. The "Laugh-In" crowd obviously finds him a figure of fun, sometimes to a point where this viewer finds it uncomfortable to watch.

ABC still isn't making any announcements, but the trade rumors are that "Turn-On's" replacement will be some part of that large, durable, flexible King family which will roll out some short musical shows on short notice.

German Told on Eichmann

TEL AVIV (AP)—An Israeli author says that a German province official was the man who gave Israel the tip that led to the capture of Adolph Eichmann.

Author Michael Bar Zohar says in the Hebrew edition of his book "The Avengers," that Fritz Bauer, late attorney general of Germany's Hesse province, discovered that the Nazi war criminal was in Argentina.

Bauer, Bar Zohar says, decided to give the information to Israeli agents instead of German authorities.

Those who make statements with tongue in cheek should recall there's still room left for a foot in the mouth, too.

HELEN HELP US!

by Helen Bottel

LETTER TO PARENTS CONSIDERING DIVORCE

Dear Helen: This is an open letter to all parents thinking of divorce. Please think again, especially if you don't just hate each other.

Seven years ago my folks separated on the day of my birthday party. It was because of another woman, and she is now my step-mother. She's nice enough but I'll never forget the hurt of that day.

For a while both my parents tried to compete for my affections, but then the court gave me to my Mom and my Dad slowly faded from my life. Nowadays I only see him once or twice a year and then only if I call and ask if I can visit. His excuse is that it costs so much to call me long distance, but he might at least write a letter. I can only assume he's got a new life without me, and I'm not wanted.

I was lucky in having two wonderful grandparents who helped me when Mom started to date. Usually most kids are left with baby sitters, or no one.

A child needs both parents to give them love. There's pride in saying "My Mom," and "My Dad." There's a little shame in the word "step" when it comes before Mother or Father.

"I've never forgiven my parents, and I can't. I've often wondered why my Dad couldn't have loved me enough to make up for the other woman, or why Mom wasn't good enough to suit him. And I sometimes blame myself, for if I had been the boy my father wanted, he might have stayed with us.

Twice I've tried to get even with my folks, but I only hurt myself, and my actions didn't have the same effect on their lives as the divorce had on mine. Now I'm very sorry for what I did, but there are no words to tell them, just as there are no words to say I'm sorry about the divorce.

I'm starting a new life in April when I'll be married to a wonderful man. But the wedding will be awkward because my grandfather is giving me away. I just can't choose between my Dad and my Step-Dad.

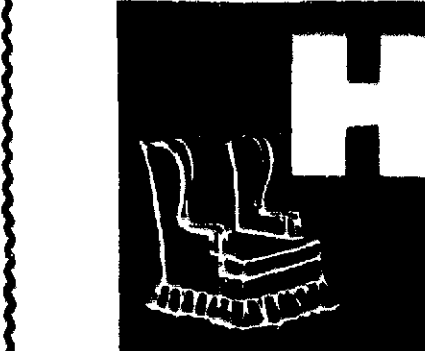

A child's life is never normal after a divorce. Please, parents, stop and look at your children before you leave them. No one can replace you!—S.B.H. (STOP BROKEN HOMES)

Dear Helen: I'm pregnant and am going to marry the father of my baby this summer after the baby is born, so I can have a nice wedding.

My problem is that my mother and future mother-in-law are making plans without consulting my wishes. They say I can't have a white formal gown or a big wedding. Why not? I'll be in good shape by then, and I thought only orange blossoms and a veil signified virginity. I'm willing to do without them, but I want to be a real bride. —

Nixon Handles Situation Very Well

By FRANCES LEWINE
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP)—President Nixon is finding a source of jokes in something that could have been anything but a laughing matter for his administration—the short-lived appointment of Willie Mae Rogers as consumer affairs consultant.

Nixon paid a surprise visit Monday to a party his wife, Pat, gave for 144 newswomen and Cabinet wives and recalled that he had been criticized at his second news conference for having named only three women to government posts.

"I realized that was a legitimate criticism so I just went out and appointed a woman consultant on consumer affairs," Nixon said. Then he added, to laughter, "That shows what can happen when you listen to criticism from the press."

Miss Rogers quit her consultant's position over the weekend after her decision to continue as the salaried director of the Good Housekeeping Institute and keeper of its seal of good housekeeping prompted a storm of criticism.

Nixon even read a Valentine "purported" to be from Miss Rogers.

"Faces are red, consumers are blue; four days for me, four years for you."

MOTHER AND BRIDE-TO-BE

Dear M and BTB: What kind of mother would brand her child illegitimate simply to have a big, formal wedding?

If you care about each other and the baby, marry now and forget that formal wedding. Somehow I doubt there's enough real love here to carry you through the first year, but I HOPE I'm wrong!—H.

Dear Helen: I have a girl friend I'll call "A" and two boy friends I'll call "B" and "C." I like "A" but "A" doesn't like me or "C." She prefers "B," but "B" doesn't like her. We all go over to see her together as we have one car between us. "A" hangs on to "B" and that makes "C" mad, so he takes off and I'm left watching "A" and "B."

What a lot of fun that is! I like "A" too, but if I go to see her without bringing "B" along, she gets mad. What should "C" and I do?—LEFT-OUT FRIEND.

Dear Friend: Why not spice up your alphabet soup with "D" and "E"—two friends who would be to you and "C" as "B" is to "A." Confusin', isn't it, readers?—H.

Hope Star Sports

Cats to End Cage Season on Weekend

By RALPH ROUNTON
Star Sports Writer

Basketball season draws toward the close this week for the Hope Bobcats, as the regular slate winds up with home games this Friday night against the Fairview Cardinals and Saturday against the Malvern Leopards.

For the Bobcats, now 0-8 in conference play and winless in the last six weeks, the road has been a tough one, with best efforts in every instance matched by a top game from the opponent.

Fairview comes to town as the No. 1 team in the state with a 25-0 record, the only unbeaten mark in Arkansas ranks. The Cards need only one win to wrap up their second 4-AA Western Division crown in a row, and Coach Pat Foster's opponents have breezed literally through the important January and February battles with no off-nights.

Earlier the Redbirds defeated Hope 89-61 in the Fairview gym, in what would rank as one of the Bobcats' best games. Seemingly, the only chance any 4-AA school would have on the unbeaten pace-setters would be to play the stall game with effectiveness.

Malvern invades Jones Field House for the final regular schedule date on Saturday evening, and Hope will try to make amends for an 88-70 loss in the Leopards' gym. That, incidentally, was a close game until the final minutes when Malvern pulled away from a 63-60 lead.

Both games will be preceded by "B" team contests, which tip off at 6:30 p.m. both nights.

Southern State College once again will host the 4-AA Championships next week, with the pairings exclusively drawn up from standings in the respective divisions.

It's a 16-team bracket, with four byes given to the top two schools in each side. Fairview upset the Crossett Eagles for the title a year ago, and the Eagles went on to win the State AA Championship with Fairview losing out in the semifinals.

Fairview stands as the likely favorite at the State Meet in Little Rock this time around, and two straight titles for Region 4-AA would clearly mean the end of basketball dominance by the Northern Arkansas teams.

For the district tourney, though, it looks as though Hope will draw the 4th or 5th place team in 4-AA East in the first round. This is really not so imposing, as five teams were in contention for the Eastern Division crown last week end.

Armstrong, Moe Leading Oakland

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Warren Armstrong and Doug Moe are the new drum majors in Oakland's point parade as the Oaks march on toward the American Basketball Association's Western Division title.

With Armstrong and Moe taking up the scoring slack for Rick Barry, out for the season with a knee injury, the Oaks pounded the Houston Mavericks 149-122 Monday night for their 2nd victory in 52 games.

Armstrong hit for 34 points—15 of them in the first quarter—and Moe canned 33 as the Oaks stretched their lead over idle Denver to 10 games.

Bob Warren scored a career high of 30 points, leading the Los Angeles Stars past the New Orleans Buccaneers 107-104 in the only other game scheduled.

In the National Basketball Association, Cincinnati topped Baltimore 117-112 and Milwaukee stunned Atlanta 123-11.

Armstrong's first quarter spree staked Oakland to a 37-29 lead and the Oaks stayed on top the rest of the way. Henry Logan, with 22 points, and Jim Ekins, with 21, also sparked the winners' attack. Stew Johnson was high for the Mavericks with 24 points.

Warren connected on nine of 16 shots from the floor as Los Angeles built up a 17-point third quarter lead and then held off the Bucks' late surge to break a five-game losing streak.

Merv Jackson added 19 points for the Stars while Jim Jones and Ron Franz each put in 21 for NYEY Orleans.

Isn't it time to be a little realistic and remember Senators have to eat, too?

Hayes About to Take Spot From Wilt

NEW YORK (AP) — Elvin Hayes of the San Diego Rockets is about to relieve Wilt Chamberlain of a treasured spot in the National Basketball Association record book, but he's not the only star performing scoring heroics.

Hayes, the NBA's scoring leader, is on his way to becoming the first rookie to lead the NBA in that category since Wilt Chamberlain did it in 1959.

With the NBA schedule at the three-quarter mark and only 20 games left, Hayes leads runner-up Bob Rule of Seattle by 297 points. Hayes has 1830 points and for a 29.5 average while Rule has 1,533 tallies for a 24.0 average.

Seven of this week's 10 leading scorers, according to NBA statistics released today, weren't listed two years ago and six weren't among the top 10 a year ago.

Included in the four repeaters from the same period last year are Earl Monroe of Baltimore, No. 3, last year's rookie of the year, and Detroit's Dave Bing, No. 9, last year's topscorer.

Cincinnati's Oscar Robertson dipped from third place to fourth with 1,513 and 25.6, followed by Billy Cunningham of Philadelphia with 1,493 and 24.9, and Elgin Baylor of Los Angeles with 1,486 and 25.6.

Chamberlain, of Los Angeles, moved from 19th to 18th with 1,295 points for a 20.9 average.

Chamberlain held on to his lead in rebounds with 1,304, and field goal percentage, .577, while Robertson is tops in assists with 554 and Larry Siegfried of Boston is the leading foul shooter with a percentage of .875.

Milwaukee in Victory Over Atlanta

By GORDON BEARD

Associated Press Sports Writer BALTIMORE (AP) — Coach Gene Shue of the Baltimore Bullets made it clear he was not complaining, just observing.

But after a National Basketball Association doubleheader Monday night, the only action in the league, Shue's poignant comparison left little to the imagination.

"Flynn Robinson drove to the basket once in the first game and he shot 22 free throws," Shue said. "It's hard to understand how Earl Monroe, who lives in heavy traffic, could only shoot three."

Robinson missed only one of his foul shots and connected on 11 of 20 field goal attempts as he scored 43 points and led Milwaukee, last in the Eastern Division, to a 123-111 victory over Atlanta, the second-place team in the West.

Monroe, who attempts most of his shots after driving in close, scored 30 points as Baltimore's Eastern Division leaders lost 117-112 to the Cincinnati Royals. Monroe sank 14 of 31 field goals tries, and was two-for-three from the foul line.

The loss reduced Baltimore's lead to 2½ games over runner-up New York.

Shue added: "But that's not the reason we lost. We just couldn't put the ball into the basket at the end. We had a lot of chances."

Baltimore made just one field goal in the final eight minutes while frittering away at 104-99 lead, and that basket came with 14 seconds to play.

The Bullets led until the third consecutive long-range jumper by Adrian Smith put the Royals in front 109-108.

Down 113-110 after Jerry Lucas converted a free throw following a deliberate foul, the Bullets missed three shots from the floor and another was blocked by Lucas—who hauled down 29 rebounds.

"Everything that happens in a game contributes to the outcome," Shue said, "not just what happens in a stretch like that. We should have had a good cushion at halftime, instead of leading by just four points."

Oscar Robertson led Cincinnati with 26 points as the Royals beat the Bullets for the third time in Baltimore without a loss.

In the opener, Milwaukee blew a 14-point lead while being outscored 11-1 by Atlanta early in the final quarter.

Then the Bucks ran off a 10-0 string in the next two minutes to pull ahead 107-96.

Jim Davis topped Atlanta with 29.

Nets Flip a Coin and Get Alcindor

ST. PAUL-MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — The New York Nets, by a coin flip, won the rights to UCLA All-American giant Lew Alcindor and selected him in a secret American Basketball Association draft, highly informed sources disclosed today.

ABA Commissioner George Mikan was not expected back in Minneapolis until later today and was unavailable for comment.

Alcindor's selection by the cellar team in the ABA's Eastern Division draws the battle lines for an expected dollar war between the two-year-old ABA and the National Basketball Association, which reportedly conducted a secret draft three weeks ago in Chicago, the sources said.

The Nets flipped a coin with Houston, the last-place team in the Western Division, during the ABA's secret draft by conference telephone calls last Saturday, the sources said.

The 11-team ABA, in its second season, conducted the first two rounds of its 1969 draft. Names of other players taken were not known.

However, the Oakland Tribune said Monday that Willie Carter of Drake was drafted by Indiana and Herman Gilliam of Purdue was picked by Kentucky.

Phoenix or Milwaukee of the NBA presumably would have the draft rights to the 7-foot-1½ Alcindor, who has led UCLA to two straight NCAA championships and started them to a third.

Alcindor, however, reportedly wants to play in his native New York, he decides to play in either professional league.

Mikan has said ABA owners have agreed to pool money to lure Alcindor into the fledgling league. A specific price has not been set.

"We don't know what he is asking," Mikan said in a recent interview. "We agreed this man is valuable. So, the league will put up a fund to make sure he gets his money . . ."

Mikan, a former NBA great, predicts a no-holds barred war between the leagues for the nation's top college players and says ABA owners are prepared to pay for them.

The commissioner said the ABA has bid a lot of money in the past two drafts but "we were beaten. And I don't choose to be beaten again. Our trustees don't choose to be beaten."

Mikan has said that his league will not begin talking to college players until they have completed their eligibility.

The NCAA finals are scheduled March 20-22 at Louisville, Ky., although many collegians will have completed their careers by then.

Bears, Aggies Going for Share of SWC

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A share of the Southwest Conference basketball lead will be on the line at College Station tonight when league-leading Texas A&M hosts second place Baylor—the only team to defeat the Aggies in SWC play.

A victory by the Bears would throw the league lead into a two-way tie between the Bears and Aggies, each with an 8-2 record. SMU, currently tied with Baylor for second, could also gain a share of the lead with a victory over TCU, who leads the Aggies lose.

In other SWC games tonight, Arkansas is at Texas Tech and Rice is at Texas Tonight's showdown between Baylor and A&M has all the earmarks of another cliff-hanger. A&M has won five of its conference games by one point. The Aggies' lone defeat in SWC play was 66-65 to Baylor.

Baylor Coach Bill Menefee, whose Bears were predicted to finish seventh this season, thinks it'll be close.

"We haven't been able to beat many teams by a great number of points," Menefee said. "So if Baylor wins, it will be a close game."

"It's a big week for Baylor," said SMU Coach Bob Previtt, whose Mustangs face the Bears Saturday. "If they win those two (A&M and SMU), they would be in the driver's seat."

Then noting that only five conference games remain, Previtt added: "It's a big week for everybody."

Santa Clara Moves Into Second Spot

By BEN OLAN

Associated Press Sports Writer Santa Clara's Broncos moved into the runner-up position behind UCLA in The Associated Press' major college basketball poll today as part of a wholesale shuffle resulting from the 12-losses suffered by members of the rankings teams last week.

In the latest vote by a national panel of 40 sports writers and broadcasters, UCLA remained a unanimous choice for first place. The Bruins boosted their record to 19-0 in last week's action by trouncing Washington State 83-59 in their only start.

Santa Clara, third a week ago, advanced one place after beating San Francisco 72-47 for its 21st victory without a loss.

North Carolina, beaten by South Carolina, slipped one notch to third. The upset also resulted in the advancement of South Carolina to the No. 12 spot. The Gamecocks were not ranked last week.

LaSalle, 20-1, climbed one position to fourth while Davidson also moved up one notch to fifth. Kentucky, upset by Florida, fell two positions to sixth.

St. John's of New York, Duquesne, Purdue and Ohio State complete the Top Ten in that order. St. John's climbed two positions while Duquesne rushed up from the 13th spot. Purdue, beaten by Ohio State 88-85, slipped one notch while the Buckeyes soared from 16th to 10th.

Villanova held 11th place. After South Carolina in 12th position came Louisville, Tulsa, New Mexico State, Kansas, Tennessee, Colorado, Illinois and Marquette.

Louisville jumped seven places after defeating Tulsa 83-81 in overtime and Wichita State 65-62. Tulsa tumbled seven places to 14th. New Mexico State held its 15th spot while Kansas, Colorado, Illinois and Marquette all lost ground. The Illinois, beaten by both Michigan and Michigan State, slipped from 10th all the way to 19th.

Tennessee, 15-3, is the only newly ranked team besides South Carolina. The Vols climbed to 17th.

Dayton, a 79-71 loser to Florida State, and Baylor, defeated by Rice, dropped out of the ratings. The Flyers were 17th and the Bears 19th last week.

The Top 20, with first place votes, season records through games on Saturday, Feb. 15, and total points for the first 15 picks on a 20-16-14-12-10-9-8-7-6-5-4-3-2-1 basis:

Williams Is Excited Over Baseball Deal

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams says he is excited about his impending signing as manager of the downtrodden Washington Senators. But it appeared today the former star slugger will have to postpone celebration of his million dollar deal with owner Bob Short for at least another 24 hours.

The delay in naming Williams as manager of the last-place American League club was caused by need for additional time to work out details concerning the estimated 10 percent or $900,000 chunk of Senators stock on which he'll have options to purchase.

The announcement originally had been expected to be made Monday or today. Attorneys indicated they need additional time to complete details on the ownership angles and clear the deal with the government's tax department officials.

"It's a big week for Baylor," said SMU Coach Bob Previtt, whose Mustangs face the Bears Saturday. "If they win those two (A&M and SMU), they would be in the driver's seat."

Then noting that only five conference games remain, Previtt added: "It's a big week for everybody."

FORM CHARTS

By MARTY RALBOVSKY, NEA Sports Writer
Boston, AL East

Williams

PITCHING—Lanborg won only six games last season after recovering from serious skiing injury. He holds key to Red Sox pitching hopes. The leg he injured is fine now, but is his pitching arm? Same question holds for Santiago, who tailed off after fine start because of tendonitis in arm. Ray Culp and Dick Ellsworth, both 16-game winners last year, back them up. Bullpen isn't bad with Lee Stange, Sparky Lyle and Bill Landis. Rating: C.

CATCHING—Russ Gibson is adequate behind plate, but is weak hitter (.225 last year). Gerry Moses, after five minor-league seasons, might replace Gibson if he can hit big-league pitching. Rating: C.

INFIELD—Biggest disappointment last season was George Scott, who dropped from .303 to .171. His is still a mystery. Mike Andrews and Rico Petrocelli make Red Sox strong up the middle and both can hit. Loss of Joe Foy in expansion draft leaves third base open, but Scott—that's right, Scott—may wind up there. If he hits. Otherwise, it'll be either Dalton Jones or much-traveled Dick Schofield. Rating: B.

OUTFIELD—Cal Yastrzemski, although he slipped from '67 heights, still led league in hitting (.301). He's set in left. Reggie Smith has center sewed up, but right field is still question mark. If Tony Conigliaro returns (around Boston, they say he will) he'll get his old job back. If not, Ken Harrelson, pleasant surprise last season, will be back in right. If Conigliaro does return, Harrelson will move to first base, setting Scott free to learn all about third. Rating: A.

ROOKIES TO WATCH—Luis Alvarado, shortstop, and Carm Fanzone, third baseman, could stick. Both are up from Pittsfield in Eastern League. Syl O'Brien, another third baseman, will get look. He hit .264 at Louisville.

Predicted Finish: 3rd in East
(Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

Prospectus—Red Sox have the hitters and are strong defensively. But pitching is big question mark. Jim Lanborg and Jose Santiago, their best hurlers in pennant-winning 1967 season, were disappointing last season, although plagued by injuries. Both must regain '67 form if Dick Williams' club is to be contender in tough Eastern Division of American League.

PITCHING—Lanborg won only six games last season after recovering from serious skiing injury. He holds key to Red Sox pitching hopes. The leg he injured is fine now, but is his pitching arm? Same question holds for Santiago, who tailed off after fine start because of tendonitis in arm. Ray Culp and Dick Ellsworth, both 16-game winners last year, back them up. Bullpen isn't bad with Lee Stange, Sparky Lyle and Bill Landis. Rating: C.

CATCHING—Russ Gibson is adequate behind plate, but is weak hitter (.225 last year). Gerry Moses, after five minor-league seasons, might replace Gibson if he can hit big-league pitching. Rating: C.

INFIELD—Biggest disappointment last season was George Scott, who dropped from .303 to .171. His is still a mystery. Mike Andrews and Rico Petrocelli make Red Sox strong up the middle and both can hit. Loss of Joe Foy in expansion draft leaves third base open, but Scott—that's right, Scott—may wind up there. If he hits. Otherwise, it'll be either Dalton Jones or much-traveled Dick Schofield. Rating: B.

OUTFIELD—Cal Yastrzemski, although he slipped from '67 heights, still led league in hitting (.301). He's set in left. Reggie Smith has center sewed up, but right field is still question mark. If Tony Conigliaro returns (around Boston, they say he will) he'll get his old job back. If not, Ken Harrelson, pleasant surprise last season, will be back in right. If Conigliaro does return, Harrelson will move to first base, setting Scott free to learn all about third. Rating: A.

ROOKIES TO WATCH—Luis Alvarado, shortstop, and Carm Fanzone, third baseman, could stick. Both are up from Pittsfield in Eastern League. Syl O'Brien, another third baseman, will get look. He hit .264 at Louisville.

Predicted Finish: 3rd in East
(Newspaper Enterprise Ass'n.)

Prospectus—Red Sox have the hitters and are strong defensively. But pitching is big question mark. Jim Lanborg and Jose Santiago, their best hurlers in pennant-winning 1967 season, were disappointing last season, although plagued by injuries. Both must regain '67 form if Dick Williams' club is to be contender in tough Eastern Division of American League.

Gay Julie rushed to the front as the field entered the stretch, withstood a charge by Hem Line, the even-money favorite, and nosed out Carshido who came charging up on the inside.

Cheiron Duke won the first race and Frosty Dew the second race Monday for a $73 daily double.

A crowd of 6,983 wagered $495,375 Monday.

Cruz Places World Crown on the Line

By BOB MYERS
Associated Press Sports Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Carlos "Teo" Cruz of the Dominican Republic puts his world lightweight crown on the line tonight for the second time, and against the same opponent, youthful Mando Ramos of Long Beach, Calif.

The 15-round rematch goes on about midnight, EST, in the Sports Arena. Promoter Alleen Eaton expects a crowd of 15,000 and gate receipts of $140,000 or more.

The bout will not be broadcast either via television or radio.

The encounter shapes up as one of those classics of the ring — Cruz, 31, who has been fighting 10 years, boasting age and experience, and Mando, a mere 20, a pro for four years, but with youth and enthusiasm in his corner.

In the fight between the two in Los Angeles last Sept. 27, Cruz went out in front in the early rounds and built up a lead that outlasted Ramos' later rally.

The Long Beach Kid, then only 19, won the last three rounds and, while Cruz claimed he was never hurt, he did tire and was in distress at least once.

The stocky Cruz, who swings with both hands from a crouch, said he had been weakened by the flu which upset his training schedule.

Cruz has spoken confidently of winning, even hinting he might put the long-legged, good-looking Mando away for the court.

It would be a first, Ramos has been hurt and carved up over the eyes but he's a gutsy young guy and has never been stopped.

Disorder on Compuses to Courts

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
California turned to the courts Tuesday in an attempt to cool off campus militants at San Francisco State College, scene of disruptive student unrest for the past three months.

At the University of Wisconsin a classroom boycott by Negro students lost momentum after 1,900 National Guardsmen were ordered in to help police control demonstrators. Student leaders called a recess in campus demonstrations.

A new twist to campus rebellion arose at the University of South Carolina when a youth was arrested for burning a Confederate flag in front of the school president's home. In South Carolina state law forbids mutilation of the United States, Confederate or state flags.

The California state attorney general obtained a court order Monday dismissing militant officers of the student body and placing $250,000 of student aid funds in receivership. A spokesman said the court would be asked to make the injunction permanent.

At the same time Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, the school's acting president, suspended two Negro teachers for supporting a strike by some elements of the student body and faculty.

At Wisconsin only 400 listeners turned up Monday night for a campus rally supporting demands by Negro students for special privileges, compared with thousands who took part in demonstrations at the start of the classroom boycott last week.

H. Edwin Young, the university's chancellor, said:

"The situation is such that we can reduce substantially the number of guardsmen."

The Wisconsin Student Association, a student-elected group, was joined by most of the university's Negro organizations in asking participants in the classroom boycott to go back to classes.

The South Carolina student accused of burning the Confederate flag was Brett Bursey, 24. Bursey is a former chairman of a student group called AWARE which demands an end to waving of the flag and the playing of "Dixie" on the campus.

Taken into custody by officers of the State Law Enforcement Division, Bursey was released on $100 bail.

Elsewhere on the campus scene:

University of California at Santa Barbara—About 500 students marched into the student union building Monday, declared it a "student liberated zone" and vowed to stay indefinitely. They demanded a black studies department and an end to alleged police harassment of students. Campus police said they anticipated no trouble.

Roosevelt University, Chicago—Six students were expelled for disrupting a psychology course.

University of Windsor, Ont.—The student council decided on a referendum to find out how many support 200 militants holding a sit-in in the theology department, protesting the ouster of a department professor.

Sumner High School, Kansas City, Kan.—Several hundred students marched to city hall protesting the failure of their school to observe a Negro History Week.

First Offender Reformatory Bill Offered

LITTLE ROCK (AP) — A bill was introduced in the Arkansas Senate Monday that would create an intermediate reformatory for first offenders under the age of 21.

The bill is similar to a measure passed earlier by the legislature to create a first offenders institution.

The new bill, sponsored by the Senate Penitentiary Committee, designates Tucker Prison Farm as the site of the reformatory where the other measure made no site designation.

The measure also would permit the courts to send a felon under 18 to the Boys Training School at Pine Bluff. Under the bill, a youthful felon sent to the training school could be transferred to the intermediate reformatory if he is unruly and incorrigible.

Sens. Clarence Bell of Parkin, W. K. Ingram of West Memphis and Joe Lee Anderson of Helena introduced a bill to create a state Community Junior College Board.

In the House, Rep. David Kane of Little Rock introduced a bill that would require local leader in the California Assembly and manager of Kennedy's campaign in the state, said he felt "there was a real danger" that Sirhan would be harmed before he could come to trial.

"I think I kept saying, 'Don't kill him! Don't kill him! We've got to keep him alive!'" Unruh testified.

Roosevelt Grier, the 290-pound 6-foot-5 bearded former tackle for the Los Angeles Rams who disarmed Sirhan, said he fought off people who were trying to hit Sirhan until "they seemed to realize that we were trying to save the guy."

cent violations," he said in prepared testimony.

Besides a tax on such foundation income as interest, dividends, capital gains and profit from business activities, Patman said he is offering legislation to limit any privately controlled foundation from owning more than 3 per cent of the stock of a business. He said it would also require such organizations to distribute annually for philanthropic purposes their entire net income.

Patman said 596 foundations studied by the small business subcommittee he heads increased the value of their assets from $10.2 billion to $15.1 billion between 1960 and 1966.

The $3.5-billion Ford Foundation, he said, paid $360,351 to four law firms in 1966 and 1967, including $159,644 to one, Ginsburg & Feldman of Washington.

Patman said the Ford Foundation also spent $446,262 for public relations in 1967, while the Rockefeller Foundation paid $31,546 to a public relations counsel.

Patman said Ford Foundation grants for widening voter registration in Cleveland had been credited with helping Carl B. Stokes win election as mayor. He said its grants for experimental school decentralization in New York helped trigger a teacher strike.

"Are the giant foundations on the road to becoming political machines?" he asked. "... Does the Ford Foundation have a grandiose plan to bring vast political, economic and social changes to the nation in the 1970's?"

Patman said that of the 596 foundations studied by his subcommittee, 136 held from 5 to 100 per cent of stock in 288 corporations. Control of foundations passes by inheritance, he said, and "this enables a few individuals to control ever increasing tax-exempt wealth."

option elections on the sale of tobacco and tobacco products. Kane pointed out that the state presently requires local option elections on the sale of alcoholic beverages.

"It is believed that the use of tobacco and the consumption of alcoholic beverages are equally detrimental to the human body," Kane said in the bill. He said the bill would bring the state's tobacco laws in line with the liquor laws.

The bill would make it unlawful to sell tobacco products within 100 feet of a church or school prohibit sales on Sunday, prohibit sales to persons under 21 and prohibit use of tobacco on the premises where sold. It also would limit possession to one carton of cigarettes and one pound of other tobacco products.

Rep. Jesse Hayes of Poca, Montas introduced a bill which would change the policy of tobacco wholesalers and distributors of fixing the cigarette stamp tax to cigarettes sold in Arkansas.

The bill would establish a central cigarette stamping agency to affix stamps on each package to be sold in the state,

Ememptions Issue Slated for Thursday

By ED SHEARER
Associated Press Writer
LITTLE ROCK (AP) — The Arkansas House has set a special order of business for Thursday on a controversial proposal to remove all exemptions from the state sales and use tax laws.

The lower chamber decided to set a time for final action on the bill by Rep. Bennie Ryburn of Monticello after it adopted a motion by Ryburn to remove his bill from the Revenue and Taxation Committee.

Both the House and Senate heard explanations of the proposed job classification and compensation plan for state employees. The measure was explained by Clarence E. "Mike" Frost, director of the state Administration Department.

A bill to create a Commission on Higher Education tumbled for the second time in less than a week in the House. Rep. Ray S. Smith Jr. of Hot Springs, author of the measure, voted against it last week when he realized it was dead and then served notice of reconsideration.

Ryburn's motion to remove his bill from committee drew surprisingly strong support with a 76-8 vote.

Smith, chairman of the committee, had opposed the motion, saying his committee had been extremely busy and that it had not reached a final decision on a recommendation for the measure.

The bill was given little chance of receiving a favorable recommendation from the committee, so Ryburn went to work drumming up support for his motion early Monday.

"I don't mind creating some dust," said Rep. R. A. "Doc" Caldwell Jr. of Proctor, as he argued for the motion.

"Let's create a little excitement and let the dust fall where it may," he said. "We are under the gun on taxes."

Smith's higher education proposal would have vested in the current Commission on Coordination of Higher Educational Finance the power to determine future new programs in the colleges and universities.

Each institution would retain its present board of trustees and would continue to offer its present programs.

Several lawmakers contended that the bill was too far-reaching and the measure was rejected 44-46, with 51 votes needed for passage. Last week the bill failed 34-54.

Sen. Guy H. "Mutt" Jones of Conway suggested Monday that the late introduction of the classification and compensation plan was designed to put pressure on the legislature.

He said the bill should have been introduced the first day of the session but it was placed in the hopper only last week.

However, Sen. Robert Harvey of Swifton assured Jones that the Joint Budget Commission had made no effort of with hold the bill, which would affect 12,000 state employees in about 100 positions comparable throughout the various state agencies.

Frost said the bill would provide salary increases of about $500,000 in the fiscal year beginning July 1 and about $1.2 million in the following fiscal year.

The Senate passed and sent to the governor a bill by Ryburn changing the name of Arkansas Agricultural and Mechanical College at Monticello to Arkansas Agricultural and Mechanical University.

In other action Monday, the House passed bills to prohibit picketing or demonstrating before a private residence, to authorize the state veterinarian to establish regulations for brucellosis control and providing that 10 per cent interest be paid a contractor when payment is not made within 90 days after completion of a project for a state agency.

The lower chamber defeated a riot control measure.

In committee action Monday, the Senate Cities and Towns Committee reported out without recommendation a bill to reduce the work week of firemen in cities of 15,000 or more from 72 to 64 hours.

The Senate Insurance Committee deferred action on a bill to restrict companies that sell life insurance as a form of burial insurance. It would require the firms to pay cash benefits rather than give goods and services.

Sen. Richard Earl Griffin of Crossett, author of the bill, said that if the bill harmed the insurance companies "then it's obvious they are deceiving the people."

"If they say they are giving four of the approach slabs flted to the twin bridge structures, although in varying degree. The only cure for the condition is to remove the existing slabs then re-work the subgrade, replacing them in part, and construct a new slab. This will be done in two phases — the first on the eastbound lanes, the second on the westbound — so that traffic in one direction will be in use of the Interstate facility at all times during the repair period.

It is planned to repair the slabs on the eastbound lanes first, then when they are completed and reopened, those on the westbound lanes. It is anticipated that each direction will be closed for approximately fifteen days.

During the first repair period eastbound traffic will leave the Interstate at the Homan interchange and travel the old U.S. Highway 67 to Fulton and beyond. During the second repair period westbound traffic will remain on the old U.S. Highway 67 at Fulton and enter the Interstate at the Homan Interchange and continue west.

Confession Signed After Torture

By RICHARD F. MEYER
Associated Press Writer
CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — The U.S. Code of Conduct for servicemen taken prisoner doesn't "apply itself well" to modern psychological warfare, says the USS Pueblo's second in command.

"The underlying principle behind it must be maintained—that is, loyalty to our government," Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr. told a Navy court of inquiry Monday after saying he signed a fraudulent spy confession following two days of North Korean torture and two death threats.

"But the state of the art (of war) has changed considerably... now we have a psychological warfare environment and I don't think it (the code) applies itself well in that environment."

Murphy was asked about the code by an attorney for Cmdr. Lloyd M. Bucher, skipper of the Pueblo. Bucher told the court four weeks ago that North Koreans used torture to make him admit falsely to spying. Murphy was Bucher's executive officer.

The court is investigating why the ship surrendered without a fight and the conduct of the crew as prisoners.

Murphy, 31, was the first to appear in the conduct phase of the inquiry. He said he considered his confession a deviation from the code. He said the code was posted on the intelligence ship before it was captured by the North Koreans last year. Its men were released 11 months later—just before Christmas.

The code, promulgated by former President Eisenhower after the Korean War, prohibits U.S. military men from divulging anything but name, rank, serial number and date of birth to their captors.

Murphy said he made a false confession to spying—and to invading North Korean territorial waters—but not before the North Koreans gave him three bloody beatings, threatened twice to kill him and he heard what sounded like Bucher and other officers confessing.

$1,000 in services, that is the same thing as cash, or should be," Griffin said.

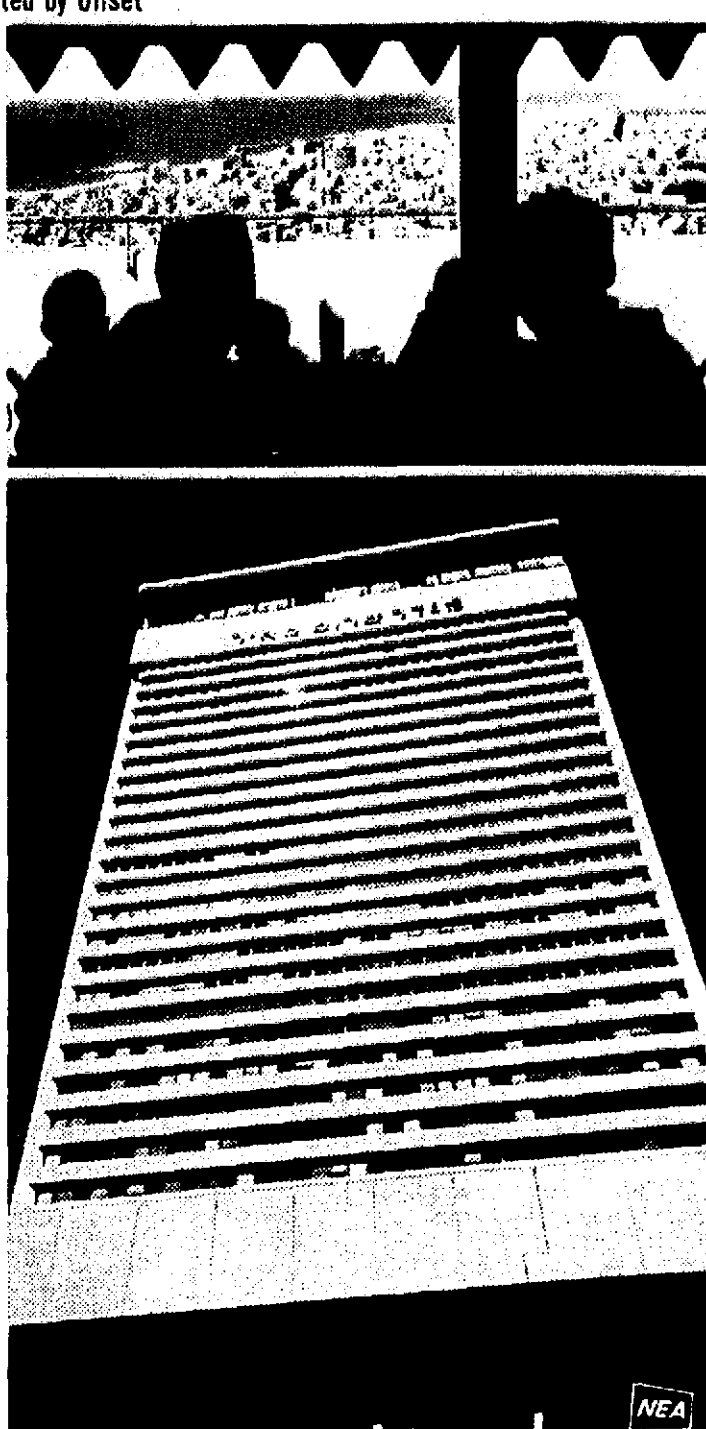

Bob Jackson of Newport, operator of one of the companies, said he took offense at the "innuendoes" that "the people are being cheated."

Other measures introduced in the House Monday included: — A bill by Rep. James Shaver to remove from juries the power to set sentences.

— A bill by Rep. Paul Meers to prohibit the use of games and contests by service stations and grocery stores.

— A bill by Rep. L.L. "Doc" Bryan to establish a Commission on Higher Education to serve in an advisory capacity.

— A bill by Rep. Ray S. Smith Jr. to create a Commission on Higher Education which would approve or disapprove new programs for the various colleges and universities.

Jerusalem House Blasted by Bomb

JERUSALEM (AP) — A hand grenade exploded and smashed windows in a house in the Jewish sector of Old Jerusalem today, shortly after a mystery blast startled residents through the city.

Witnesses said the grenade blasted a house designated for Jewish occupation in El Monadilem Street. The street in the former Jordanian area has been largely uninhabited since the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

No injuries or other damage were reported.

Police dismantled a second grenade in the yard of the house, a spokesman said.

In Bethlehem, 300 schoolgirls and 400 schoolboys went on strike to demonstrate support for anti-Israeli guerrillas. Only one private school was open in Nablus, and in Ramallah 200 trainee teachers entered the second day of a hunger strike supporting the guerrillas.

Personal Income Rise Smallest in Over Year

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor disputes and tax increases were cited as contributing factors by the Commerce Department today as it reported the smallest monthly rise in personal income in more than a year.

Personal income climbed during January to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $715 billion, a $1.6 billion increase. The rise from November to December had been $5.5 billion.

Government payrolls were almost unchanged at an annual rate of $101 billion.

24-hour truce, and enemy harassing attacks continued. Most of the latter were small-scale, but about 60 U.S. and South Vietnamese operations of battalion size or larger were reported under way.

The U.S. Command said American helicopter gunships killed 24 enemy soldiers in the Central Highlands, and smashed two Viet Cong sampan convoys within a mile of each other in the Mekong Delta 75 miles southwest of Saigon. A spokesman said 26 Viet Cong were killed and 25 sampans were destroyed.

Four hours before the U.S. and South Vietnamese truce ended, an American helicopter on a reconnaissance mission was shot down and destroyed about 35 miles north of Saigon. The two crewmen were wounded but were rescued. It was the 2,370th American helicopter reported lost in the war.

A delayed report by U.S. headquarters disclosed that the battleship New Jersey attacked the northern half of the demilitarized zone last Friday after North Vietnamese troops there fired on an American reconnaissance plane and missed it.

It was the first reported American attack on the northern half of the six-mile-wide zone in two and a half months. A spokesman said the battleship's 16-inch guns silenced the North Vietnamese gun position and destroyed one bunker.

RACING FOR REHABILITATION

Losers have a chance to become winners in a unique program at Ohio's Mansfield Reformatory combining race cars and rehabilitation. Inmates in an automotive mechanics class instructed by Sgt. Jerry Campbell are partners in the operation of the "High Walls Special," a rebuilt racer which every weekend in season heads through the gates for a nearby dirt track to compete against the best wheelmen the area can put up. Three go along as the pit crew—and always return. Some 100 men have gone through the course, most going on to outside jobs as mechanics. None have had to return for a refresher course.

ON THE OUTSIDE for a race, Mansfield inmates service the "High Wall Special." The car is powered by a 427-cubic-inch engine donated by Ford.

BEHIND THE WHEEL for a race, the man behind the Mansfield, Ohio, Reformatory's combination of racing and rehabilitation is Sgt. Jerry Campbell, instructor of the automotive class.
